Art Appreciation & Exploration Choice Board

Choose any of the boxes below to get started on your next project! Make sure to click the hyperlinks (blue underlined text) for articles, resources, and ideas! Detailed directions are on Google Docs linked to the (i) in each box. Answer my weekly question on Classroom with your choice so I can set up an assignment submission form for you. Here are a couple sites to help you get stuff done: Homemade Art Supply Recipes & Photo Editing Site

1 Week Duration (1hr.15min.)	Have you ever stumbled upon a random piece of artwork that brightened your day? Make guerilla art to spread some joy! Make sure to take a photo before you walk away! i	Take a virtual museum tour and complete a DAIJ. (Description, Analysis, Interpretation, Judgement) (i)	The Getty Art Museum sent out a tweet that started a phenomenon. Bored people around the world are recreating famous artworks with what they've got at home. Do the same! (i)	Watch an episode of Art21. Write a paragraph summarizing the main points of the video. i	Art is everywhere. Find 9 objects around your home that you can see the art in. What about these things made you choose them?
	Create a Padlet or Pinterest board of ideas. Include project walkthroughs, tutorials, "hacks", inspirational photos, and more! This will be your own toolkit to draw from, so add what you think will be useful to you. (i)	Create an artwork while focusing more on the process than on the product. Doodle with your non-dominant hand, channel your inner child with fingerpainting, create a sculpture without a plan, or something else! Write a paragraph reflecting on the experience. (i)	Watch one (or all) of the Lucas the Spider videos. Come up with your own character that behaves unexpectedly - like a quiet, shy lion or a terrifying, vicious bunny. Create an artwork based on your idea. (i)	We are living history right now! Get into street photography by taking photos showing the strange sights of "Safer at Home" or take a page out of some quarantined artists' books and take screenshots of video games. i	Need a way to calm your mind with a simple task? Start doing daily doodles. You can use it like a journal and document your pandemic experience, or draw random things to take your mind off it! Explore #dailydoodle on Instagram or Twitter for ideas. i
2 Week Duration (2hr.30min.)	Have you ever seen an ad that actually made you want to buy a product? Marketing teams spend hours coming up with the best way to sell products. Now it's your turn! Create an advertisement for a new or existing product. i	Being stuck in one place can make familiar spaces feel boring. Take a fresh look at your environment by drawing a room in your house using one point perspective. Make sure to include details like the salt and pepper shakers on your stove or the hand towel hanging by your bathroom sink. (i)	Here's a brief history of emojis . Here's a website with a bunch of different kinds of emojis based on different themes . If you could design your own themed emoji set, what would it look like? (i)	Create your own public service announcement, like this viral TikTok . While you can make something about COVID19, you can also make art to create awareness for any issue you care about . This can be a poster, video, photo series, presentation, or anything you can think of! (i)	Daily doodles like in the box above, but for 2 weeks! (i)
	The Smithsonian National Museum of Art held an exhibition dedicated to video game art. Get inspired and use PIXILART to make your own retro digital art. (i)	Anonymous artist Gripless has been making COVID19 pandemic themed artwork using pop culture references. Come up with your own topical art. i	Found object art can be made out of nearly anything! Watch the videos for inspiration and create your own artwork out of materials you have on hand or find laying around. i	There are multitudes of careers in the arts. Find one that interests you in some way. Research it and write a brief essay on what the career entails and how you could start working in it. (i)
3 Week Duration (3hr.45min.)	Congratulations! You're in the running to be a curator at your favorite museum. As part of the application process, they want you to come up with your own exhibit proposal. What would you put in a museum? i	Animation is a time consuming and skill intensive form of digital art. It's much easier to use good old pen and paper. Create a flipbook.	There are countless forms of art, but over time they've all been categorized into different movements. Pick one that appeals to you, and create a visual timeline detailing the advent, duration, and end of the movement. (i)	Whether you're into sports or collectible card games, there's a trading card out there for you. Create your own deck using digital tools or by drawing them out on small pieces of paper. (i)	Daily doodles like in the box above, but for 3 weeks! (i)
4 Week Duration (5hr.)	In the midst of the COVID19 pandemic, When companies design products, they usually create a digital model. Use Strata Sculpt 3D to create a prototype of your own invention.	Did you know that some of the most famous movies ever made were created with a technique you can do on any smartphone or tablet? It takes a good amount of patience to make a stop motion video, but it'll be worth it in the end! i	What is art? It's a hard question to answer. What counts as art? What is art for? Why do people care so much about it? Is it really that important? Do some research and write a persuasive essay.	Haven't you always wanted to live my glamorous life? Time to play art teacher and make a presentation on something super cool! Teach me about an artist or movement you like with a Google slideshow.	Daily doodles like in the box above, but for A MONTH! (i)