Rob Gale uses symmetry to create a kaleidoscope effect to his images.

In lockdown we're surrounded by the same spaces every day. For task two you will be taking a landscape photo of your house and changing it into something new by using a similar edit to this photographer.

Task Instructions

1. Take a landscape photograph outside. This could be of your house, of your street.
2. Use either photopea.com or the format options in google slides to create your edit. The main tools you will be using are duplicating and flipping.
3. You will need to have at least 4 duplications of your image.
4. Share your work with me once completed.

Tips for taking your landscape images

- Make sure the orientation of your frame is landscape as opposed to portrait.
- Step back so that you're getting a lot of information in your photograph.
- Utilize leading lines in your image so lots of interesting shapes can be made.
